

Professional Book-Talk on
The World is Flat by Thomas Friedman

So, you've heard that the world is now flat. What does this mean for education? How does this impact what your schools are doing in regard to the rigor of the curriculum? Are the classrooms in your district providing cutting edge experiences? Are school leaders able to assist teachers in adapting their classrooms to the new "flat world?"

This workshop is an energizing, facilitated group-reflection on The World is Flat. It's the perfect way to build collaboration with a faculty, central office, or leadership team.

Chris, this is exactly what we needed. We are revitalized and I feel like we are really moving forward together as a unified team. Thank you so much.
